"I remember the day my world turned upside down so clearly."

Rosemary Keely is a normal twelve-year-old. That is, if you don't know her that well. For years, a mysterious power has been building inside of her – and it's finally coming out. But there are things that Rosemary doesn't know about her powers. She can wipe out the entire universe of elements that she lives in – or save it. There are secrets about this power that she doesn't know. Certain people will do anything for this power. Certain people will betray her. And they'll show no mercy.

Sophia is eleven years old and lives in Pennsylvania with her mom, dad, and little brother. She's been writing since she was six. Some of her hobbies are art, singing, piano, and soccer. She loves to read (especially Percy Jackson). This is her first novel/published book.
